

MISSISSIPPI SPORTS LAW REVIEW

EDITOR'S NOTE

Jack Noonan

The MISSISSIPPI SPORTS LAW REVIEW, has continued to build on the past successes by maintaining the unique status as the only SEC school with a Sports Law Review. We, as a MSLR family, hold this title with the utmost regard. The REVIEW has continued to accomplish its goals of building a renowned sports law publication through the diligent editing, writing, and selection of novel pieces by its members and supporters. The REVIEW's annual symposium has benefited, the University of Mississippi School of Law, Ole Miss students, and to the citizens of our marvelous state, by providing a forum in which modern and relevant sports topics may be discussed on record with leaders of the sports industry throughout the country.

The REVIEW owes much of its continued success to Professor William W. Berry III, our most ardent supporter and faculty advisor, and Professor Ron Rychlak, a highly engaged and influential faculty member who provides much needed guidance. I would like to thank specific members of the REVIEW. First, I would like to thank outgoing Editor-in-Chief, Will Pomeroy, who did all he could to make the transition incredibly easy. Also, I would like to thank Spencer Durden who worked with the Staff Editors ensuring all the articles were edited and reviewed on time to meet deadlines. Finally, I wanted to thank Brantley Adams, Business Editor, who ensured all the funding, accounts, and bills were managed so we could get this edition completed.

It's worth bringing up again that none of this could have been done without Professor William Berry. Professor Berry has been a great asset to us all at the REVIEW. He has assisted the REVIEW since its very first days and has always made himself available to advise the staff. Thank you for your advice and guidance, and for being an incredible friend and advisor.

I am excited to have the opportunity to serve as Editor-in-Chief for this coming year to continue to grow the Sports Law Division here at Ole Miss. We are creating a great team with more support than ever before. This excitement will allow us to do more things that will help support and strengthen our brand. I am excited for what is to come.

To the members of the REVIEW, past, present, and future, our faculty and staff, and our readers thank you again for your continued dedication. I am thankful for the opportunity to serve as the REVIEW's seventh Editor-in-Chief.
